Ballyseede Castle

An Irish Historical Treat

Located in the heart of County Kerry, Ballyseede Castle is the perfect location for an historical weekend away. Ireland offers so much and, in particular, South West Ireland ticks all the boxesyou cannot go wrong with this location!

This beautiful Irish castle is within easy reach of Tralee town; Kerry airport; 7 magnificent golf links and 11 golf courses, to include 2 championship courses at Tralee and Ballybunion; Dingle peninsula and the Ring of Kerry. If you are feeling more adventurous, you can enjoy the magnificent McGillicuddy's Reeks. Not to mention the Irish hospitality you will receive in every town and village and at the castle.

The castle stands in its own grounds at the end of a winding carriage drive. This elegant castle looks as if it were built to outlive the vices and follies of man. It has been fought over, lived in and loved, and carries forward its ancient grandeur into the 21 century.

Following the defeat of the Desmoids in 1584, the castle plus 3000 acres of land was granted as a perpetual lease to Robert Blennerhassett, the rent being one red rose to be presented each year on Midsummer's Day. This noble family and their descendants occupied Ballyseede until 1966.

The castle boasts the ghost of a past Landlord which is known to walk the long corridors in the basement level. On 24th of March each year, the ghost is known to make its presence felt as it did to guests in 1998. These residents vacated their rooms and were last heard of when they went to a local bookshop and asked for a book on local ghosts. They told the shop assistant they had a frightening experience "they saw a spirit". This is the first time anyone was scared of the ghost known as Hilda.

Don't let this put you off a stay at this splendid property - you will be looked after well, in a great location near to Tralee, the bustling capital town of County Kerry, the home to the internationally renowned 'Rose of Tralee' festival, held every August.
